

FASHION.

The Jersey dies hard.
Apron fronts are on the wane.
It is decidedly a feather season.
Bodices grow longer and longer.
Long haired furs have quite gone out.
Short visitos are by no means out of vogue.
Cheviot dresses look best when tailor-made.
Flannel-finished cloths are much in demand.
None but aesthetes wear short waist just now.

The fashionable remedy for wrinkles is dematine.
The eagle's claw is again a fashionable ornament.
Tortoise shell ornaments are never out of vogue.
Short waists will remain perdue till next spring.

Light colored heavy wraps are much worn this winter.
Black remains the favorite dress of American women.
Curly plush is one of the prettiest trimming materials.

Plush basques with moire collars and cuff are much admired.

The tailor-cut jacket retains its place among fashionable wraps.

Large pokes with sugar-loaf crowns take precedence of all other bonnets.

Plush is the prettiest trimming for cheviot dress when it is trimmed at all.

Five o'clock tea cloths with borders and fringes are made about two yards square.

Frog buttons are parallel rows of Titan braid trim cloth dresses very elegantly.

Satin and plush muffs take the place of fur ones in all but the severest weather.

The fashionable brocades of this winter are very magnificent, but very expensive.

Winter petticoats with a leather facing are the latest whim of an English dress-maker.

Plush is the favorite material for independent basques, to be worn with a variety of skirts.

For all cloth-finished fabrics self trimmings and machine stitching should be preferred.

Rhine, crystal lace, pins, combs, and bracelets retain place among fashionable ornaments.

Manufacturers of repped goods have induced Worth to try and bring them into favor again.

Although great length is the feature of the winter wraps, it is permissible to wear short ones.

Immense felt hats, with plushlike edges to the brim, are worn side by side with small capotes of velvet.

Combination costumes of new stuff should not be so gay as those where one or the other material is old.

Dark all-wool cheviots of pure wool and and good colors sell in large quantities for business and fatigue costumes.

An umbrella handle is a thing of beauty in these days, or at least may be, if one choose to pay the price.

As a central ornament for a penwiper, the whim of the moment is a china pig with a tail curled very tight.

Gorgeous in is a swell's necktie at present. It is not only brocaded and shaded, but wrought in gold and silver.

The safest thing to wear under an electric light is a brocade of many colors blended in a small-figured design.
